COMMENT: The Chicago Police Article of the Pension Code currently allows members to apply service in certain specified functions towards their pensionable salary. An example of this would be service for leaves of absence or the performance of investigative work in a civilian capacity or service as a temporary police officer while serving in the office of the mayor. The Pension Code specifies that concurrent with this service, the City of Chicago shall contribute the appropriate employer contributions. SB 3082 specifies that service credit for these special functions shall be granted only to persons who first become a member of the fund before the effective date of this Act.
